MRS. HIRSCH'S CASE PASSED FOR WEEK

Attorneys for Alleged Blackmailer of Candler Have Not Agreed on Date.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 28.-Mrs. Margaret Hirsch, indicted jointly with J. W. Cook, who was convicted yesteray of attempted blackmail of Asa G. Candler, millionaire mayor of Atlanta, will not be tried this week. This announcement was made today Solicitor-General John Boykin, who, also stated attorneys for the prosecution and defense, would meet next week to decide when the case shall be set for trial. Counsel for Mrs. Hirsch are urging that the case be heard in April, but the prosecution has not agreed.

Cook still remained in jail at noon but his attorney said arrangements for his bond of $3,000, pending hearing of his appeal, would be made later in the day.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 28 .- "Handsome Bill" Cook was found guilty Wednes-day afternoon of attempt to blackmail Asa G. Candler, and immediately aft erward was given the maximum sen-tence under the Georgia law-twelve months on the chaingang and a fine of $1,000.

The jury was out only twenty-five minutes. Cook made a dramatic but brief statement, denying that he had asked for any money, and making direct charges that he had seen Mr.

and Mrs. Hirsch in immoral conduct, besides having once before seen Mr. Candler put his arm around Mrs. Hirsch in his office. He talked in a deliberate, calm manner, beginning with a general denial of attempting to extort money.

Cook then told about meeting Mrs

Hirsch, about two years ago, and said that some time ago he had aided her in raffling an automobile for the ben-efit of the Red Cross.

"She visited my home a number of mes and was the friend of my other," he said. "I had always been a good friend of hers until Jan. 23 of this year, at which time I chanced to be in the Candler building. At that time I saw Mrs. Hirsch enter the office of Asa G. Candler, Sr., and before he closed the door I saw him put his arms around her. I stopped, thought for a second and then walked to the door of Candler's office. SHIPYARD HOUSING BILL NOW BEFORE PRESIDENT

Washington, Feb. 28.-Plans of the emergency fleet corporation to provide ample living accommodations for shipyard workers are being completed to-day in anticipation of President Wil-son's approval of the $50,000,000 appropriation recently made by congress for housing purposes. The bill carry-ing the appropriation is now before the president. In a statement of the fleet corpora-

GREENWOOD CEMETERY

Each one of these men probably could make an extended and convincing argument for his point of view, but only the president could really tell whose ideas should prevail.

It is, after all, a question of fact. Is America overproduced? Could the la-bor now being used in nonessentials be bor now being used in nonesschtlas be diverted to essential industries in so gradual a way as not to undermine the fabric of the nation's business itself? Is America's capacity such that she can carry the load of essentials and nonessentials at the same time?

There are many men in the government who believe that the United States can do what England has tried to do and failed that is, America can carry on busi-ness as usual and win the war. These men contend that America's productive capacity has never really been strained and that the demand o the war brings production up to only 80 per cent. of capacity. With this view there is dissent, because of one factor—transportation—for while it is not doubted that the United States could meet the needs of herself and allies for war materials and manufactures, the railroad facilities are lim-ited, and that the distinction between essentials and nonessentials ultimately rests with the railways of the country and with the management of ocean tonnage.

The latter is being handled by the war trade board through the recent presidential proclamation requiring license for exports and imports. So far as can be learned. Director-General McAdoo's policy is to give priority to war materials and to give space on his trains to nonessentials whenever cars are not needed to carry war supp Frequently it happens, however, that such nonessentials are already en route Trading was less active during the early afternoon, and there was some realizing on reports that spots were offering more freely in the south. Prices, however, held steady within 9 or 10 points of the best, or around 31.30c for May contracts. when war materials are ready for shipwhen war materials are ready for ship-ment. But, it is asked, if there is no tonnage at seaboard, why jam the freight terminals with stuff for which there is no shipping available?

This illustrates the complexity of the problem, and it must not be forgotten that each one of the officials whose views are summarized above New Orleans, Feb. 28.—Rapid and nervous fluctuations featured the early trading in cotton here today. On the opening call the most active months were possesses a certain amount of power 2 to 5 points up, after which they fell 2 to 7 points under yesterday's close, immediately recovering, however, and going to a net rise of 10 points. The drouth in Texas was the main sustaining

All will naturally function with their own particular views of the situation as the right one. Nothing hits business so much as uncertainty. Even the heads of nonessential industries who have been in Washington complain that while they do not believe the government should not curtail their production, it would be much better to fix a definite policy giving them a reasonable time to convert their plants for the manufacture of necessary articles.

The market was quiet but steady after the noon hour, standing at 1 o'clock 18 to 23 points up, net. Washington is full of argument about nonessentials, but the discussion does not seem to be leading as yet to clear statement of the government's New Orleans. Feb. 28.—Spot cotton steady and unchanged. Sales on the spot, 844 bales; to arrive, 382. Low mid-dling, 30,38c; middling, 31.88c; good mid-dling, 32.63c. operate.

Many officials who believe in the relentless reduction of nonessentials are openly blaming the newspapers for failing to point out that curtailment is necessary.

Liverpool, Feb. 28.—Cotton spot steady, prices higher. Good middling, 24.27d; middling, 23.74d; low middling, 23.22d; good ordinary, 22.22d. Sales, 2.000 bales, including 1,200 American; receipts, 11,000 bales, including 10,700 American. Furnamental form. But the simple truth is that neither the newspapers nor the government can know what the essentials and nonessenials are until the government proclaims such distinctions.

Subordinate officials are loath to take the responsibility. President Wilson is the only man who is able to meet the situation, if, indeed, he decides that America cannot carry on business as usual and win the war.
